Culture in Society

By Shlok Deshpande

Culture impacts many things in our daily lives. It affects how we dress, what language we speak, what we eat, and how we behave. It also impacts how we think and treat other people of the same culture and different ones.

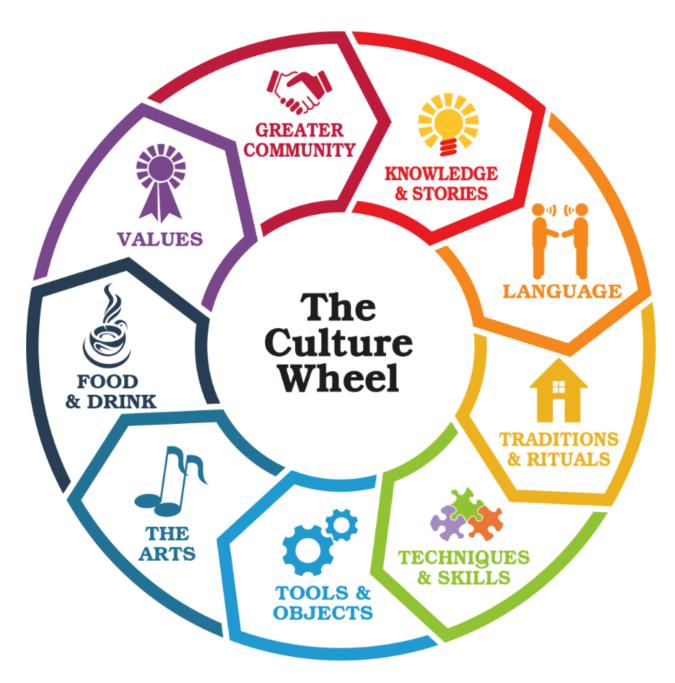

The five elements of culture are symbols, values, norms, language, and beliefs. I see these elements of culture everywhere I go - School, restaurants, libraries, social get togethers etc. People eat different foods, wear different styles of clothes, read various books, and more.

Culture has a significant influence on our lives. For example, Culture impacts how we dress. If you are from a particular culture, you might have traditional clothes from that culture.

Culture also affects who we are friends with. This is because people of the same culture have the same problems, eat the same food, dress the same way, and maybe have similar views. Everybody likes to be friends with people they can relate to.

Our society is a melting pot of cultures from all over the world! Because of this, we should learn to respect and learn from each other.

There is only one culture in some places / countries in the world, meaning the people there have limited information about different cultures. But certain other places / countries have people with multiple cultures dwelling together. Such societies are called multicultural societies.

In multicultural societies, people learn to adjust to people or communities of different cultures, and sometimes they absorb those cultures into their own. This creates a diverse society.

We in the USA live in a society of many different cultures. We are friends in schools with kids coming from various cultures. We learn about their habits or ways of life. We hear stories of their cultures or even learn languages they speak. We get to understand different traditions that are followed or beliefs they have.

In conclusion, culture affects many things in our daily lives, including what we eat and what we wear, but in the end, culture is how we think and see the world, which impacts our daily lives and our society.

Homemade PIZZA Recipe

By Pranjal Patil

Hello , My name is Pranjal Patil.

I am 7 years old.

I am in Level-1 of Chicago Vidya Mandir (Naperville Branch).

I really like to help my mom in the kitchen, and I learn new things and recipes from my mom.

Today, I am going to share with you a homemade veggie pizza recipe.

If my friends want to try this then please take help from grownups.

Things you require to cook pizza:

I will give you 3 simple steps to make veggie pizza

Step 1 - Making of crust

1 cup all-purpose flour,

½ cup curd/Yogurt,

Salt to taste.

Mix all above ingredients and make a soft dough out of it.

Then rest the dough for about 5-10 min then roll it to desired shape and thickness.

I rolled it out in a circle.

Step 2 - The Décor part:

I call this step the décor part because I really feel like I am really coloring the crust with tomato paste, then cheese and putting some nice toppings on it.

So, take the crust -spread tomato paste/sauce on it. Sprinkle cheese on it ,you can choose any cheese type, and finally toppings - I have added some bell peppers, paneer and sweet corn.

And now your pizza is ready to bake.

Step 3 - The baking:

For baking pizza , preheat the oven at 400 degree F (I took my mom's help) and bake pizza in the middle rack for 10-12 mins. Be careful while taking out the pizza tray .

And your pizza is ready.

I hope you liked my pizza recipe ,do give it a try.
